

How It Works

Attendees are free to customize their experience by electing to attend one or more classes (up to six) over three days and by selecting classes from any of the colleges or from one area of concentration. The classes are taught in an interactive, non-lecture style to encourage class involvement and to solicit a variety of points of view.